Hello, Peter.

Happy birthday to you! I want to tell you about my birthday. My last birthday was in a village. I invited my friend Ksusha to my birthday party. We ate ^a cake, potato chips, candies, chocolate and drank Soda. We played and sang songs. My family has a birthday tradition. We go to a zoo and see animals. I want to celebrate my birthday next year in an aqua park, because I like swimming very much.

Best wishes,

Yana

Hello, Peter. Last year, I had my birthday party at home. In my family, we have a tradition always to buy a cake and sing the birthday song. In next year, I want to celebrate my birthday with my friends and family members. I'd like to stay at home, too. Also, on my birthday, I'm gonna have a sleepover with my friend Adelina. She is my best friend from school. We're friends from childhood. I know her very well and she knows me, too.

I want to tell you about "Minecraft". It's a computer game, but it's possible to play it from your phone.

Minecraft is a game, where you need to survive. You can play alone, but I think, you must try to play with your friends. It's awesome. I swear! You can build a house, have a dog or a cat, make your own farm with different animals.

Also, you can laugh and even get scared. Try to build your own modern city, or build your city in Minecraft. What about building of Krasnoyarsk? Whatever you want. Really.

You can just have fun with your friends, or imagine that your plane got crashed and you have to survive on an island! I would recommend this game to those guys, who don't want to play a hard game, think too much. Once, I played Minecraft with my friend. She lives in Stavropol. We are so far away from each other! But, in Minecraft we built our house, had 2 dogs and 2 cats. And we even had 2 horses. We still play every Saturday. It's a good way to spend time with a friend, who is in another city or country.

I ~~sta~~ have been playing a game "Minecraft" since I was 4 years old. There you can change and choose your own skin. Also you can survive there, build your house, find a village, climb mountains, eat and have animals, or just ~~play~~ play in creative, where you can fly. This is a famous game, more players play it. It's an interesting game ~~to~~ for me, because you can learn how ~~to~~ ^{to} cook, mix different things, ~~or~~ where you can take a wood to build a house. ~~or~~ Also, you can play it with your friends, I'm sure - it will be very cool!

~~or~~ I ~~recommened~~ ^{would} recommend this game, because you can spend time very well and learn a lot about life in forests, caves and villages. Also, there are wars in villages, you have to fight with a large dragon. It's very terrible, but you have to win, and the villagers will live happy and well!

~~or~~ It's ~~a~~ ^{the} best game for me, it's ~~an~~ exciting, funny and hard game. Let's go to play with me.

The author of the quote Charles Dickens uses words ^{opp.} "theft of time" as a metaphor for spending time being idle when at the same time you could've been doing important work instead of addicting avoidance. I agree with the author even though I also often became a victim of procrastination and time-wasting activities (like, for example, I often am late for school just because I want to spend five more minutes resting on my bed and sipping coffee slowly).

I think hesitating to do work or just being lazy may result in everything being done at the last moment and that leads to hurrying and not doing your job properly. Not only that, but it is often disrespectful. When someone expects you to do the given task you should not just leave it you should start and not wait for inspiration. Even if you do a small part per day it is still better because even a ladder is always made of small steps.

In conclusion, the author tells us to live our lives without procrastination and always be productive and find motivation to not be lazy and spend time correctly. You'll have time to rest when everything is done as a reward for your ~~work~~ work.

I think that procrastination is the thief of time because it makes people focus on time-wasting things while ^{so} forgetting about important work they have to do. People who procrastinate have a lack of patience which is developing each time they do it, they are afraid of focusing on much needed things and hesitate to do them and covering their avoidance with words like: later, not now. In my personal experience, I had much of time lost because of procrastination it feels like idle where you just freeze in time and do ~~nothing~~ and no progress overall. People in modern generation are glued to their phones doing various things in them just wasting the time on something we don't need and doesn't actually serve any positive purpose. Many researches show that procrastination is the main source of failure of exams for students, failure to do your ^{job} ~~work~~ given task which leads in a lot of consequences; looseness of interest in self-improvement. In conclusion we can tell that procrastination is one of those things which could cause a lot of problems and be a huge downside of you in total as knowing you have many important and useful things for you, you decide to ignore them because your time-wasting experience is more important to you – is absolutely ridiculous. That's all I wanted to say.

Personally I agree with Charles Dickens - author of quotation
"Procrastination is the thief of time, collar him!"
He says that procrastination is a time-wasting when you say "later, later, later" - in fact it is never. Hardly ever when you say "I will do it later" you ~~do~~ it, it is becoming to "Probably one day I will do it. Or maybe you are going to read a book but you think "I will just check my e-mail for five minutes not for more" but sometimes it is not for five minutes it is for ^{an} hour!
I always say "I will do it tomorrow" but sometimes it is really "I will do it next week". Or when I have to do my homework I think "I will play computer game just for ^{thirty} minutes, but I waste an hour on two days. I feel avoidance."
In this situations my motivation is thoughts like "okay I will do it for five minutes and then I will go play computer games" when five minutes left I say the same words to myself. It is always helps

I understand author's point of view in that way: procrastination is the fully time-wasting deal with no any understandable reasons to be done. I think the same way as the author of this quotation. If you wouldn't procrastinate ever, you would done so many useful things like cleaning your room or to join eco-activist team and clean the whole planet. The most of famous people hard worked and didn't procrastinate and because of this they've become very rich and everyone loves them now. The avoidance of procrastination can also help you to study better than now and maybe in the future you can get a nice job with a good payment. In conclusion I would say that procrastination is the worst you can do if you have much free time and it will be better if you go and do something useful for society.

The quotation of Charles Dickens - "Procrastination is the thief of time, collar him." is very powerful. I understand it as a proclaims that procrastination, which means postponing the inevitable work by doing something else and pretending that you are busy, are harmful to you and people around you. That is why the author called it the thief of time.

I agree with Charles Dickens, the procrastination is harmful and dangerous. The laziness can harm people, make you miss your deadlines and so much more.

The procrastination is harmful, because I know a story. The ingenueer ^{opp} on a construction work was lazy and did many time-wasting things, just because he didn't want to go and check the machines the other workers were using, which unfortunately, resulted ^{to} ~~in~~ death of one of his colleagues. ^{opp} ^{sv} ^{my}

Also, one time I was so tired I didn't want to do my homework, so I sat in my room cleaning my desk, which was already cleaned beforehand. Only then I hesitated to do my homework because by then it was already too late already. So the next day I've got a bad mark. Only then I've realized that my avoidance of the homework will result my in bad marks.

In conclusion, I want to say that sometimes you ~~can~~ can get tired and won't do the homework or your chores. And missing it sometimes is okay, we're only humans. But doing it constantly, ^{new}.

^{opp} Sitting on your phone, playing idle games will not get you somewhere good.
